

The Identification Systems Group (ISG) Accepts NACCU Corporate Advisory Role

Danielle Jorgensen of the ISG accepts a two-year position on the NACCU Corporate Advisory Committee to offer future market direction

Shawnee, KS (PRWEB) August 12, 2013

The Identification Systems Group (ISG), the nationwide network of local identification system integrators, is pleased to announce that Danielle Jorgensen has accepted a position on the NACCU Corporate Advisory Committee. This position is a two year commitment.

The Corporate Advisory Committee serves as the representative body of the NACCU corporate membership. The committee will convene regularly to discuss issues of concern to corporate members and convey their questions and recommendations to the NACCU Corporate Relations Committee and Board of Directors. This is an amazing opportunity to have a voice in NACCU initiatives and to assist in developing programs that best benefits our corporate members.

“The ISG...is ideally suited to provide meaningful and sound input to...NACCU,” says Roger Sigler, Executive Director of the ISG.

“The ISG, having such a dominant presence in colleges and universities, is ideally suited to provide meaningful and sound input to the NACCU organization. We have been active members of NACCU for many years and know that Danielle will draw on her experience with both Datacard and the ISG for the good of the entire group.” said Roger Sigler, the ISG’s Executive Director.
