ISG color-coded ID solutions are very important and useful for improving patient safety. Color-coded standardization is essential to reducing medical errors. Your local ISG Dealer offers a wide variety of color-coded indicators, with text, in addition to the standard white patient ID band. Many institutions prefer using a separate color band as it reduces the amount of patient ID information that needs to be printed. However, some institutions prefer a consolidated band with all of the patient's information on it. This is when a white patient ID wristband should have an added color-coded indicator, like a clasp, label or wrap.

Standardization of color-coded alert bands have been adopted by the majority of state hospital groups as well as the American Hospital Association (AHA). The AHA issued a Quality Advisory encouraging hospitals that are already using color-coded alert wristbands to adopt standardized colors for the three most common condition alerts: RED for "Allergy", YELLOW for "Fall Risk", and PURPLE for "Do Not Resuscitate".
